QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

By Cale Clarke

This Sunday marks “Divine Mercy Sunday”, which was instituted by Pope St John Paul II. What can you tell us about the origins of this feast?

The Divine Mercy image is very familiar to Catholics. Here at Saint Justin’s, we have an impressive painting of the image in our parish foyer. However, not many know that this devotion was suppressed for many years in the Church, and it is only by the Providence of God that we can participate in it today.

Jesus appeared in a series of visions to Saint Maria Faustina Kowalska, a Polish nun, in the 1930s. The Divine Mercy image that is so familiar to us is based on descriptions of how Jesus appeared to Sister Faustina in her visions. In 1938 she died at the relatively young age of 33 (ironically, at approximately the same age as Jesus when he was crucified).

However, before she died, Saint Faustina warned her fellow nuns that a great war would engulf Poland, and she urged prayer for the nation. Sure enough, the next year, Germany invaded Poland, touching off World War II. Archbishop Jalbzykowski of Vilnius considered Sister Faustina to be a prophet, and authorized the public use of the Divine Mercy devotion for the first time. It rapidly spread around the world.

However, not everyone in the Church hierarchy was convinced of the authenticity of Saint Faustina’s private revelations. Cardinal Alfredo Ottaviani, head of the Vatican’s doctrinal office, attempted to get Pope Pius XII to condemn the writings of St Faustina, but he refused to do so. After the death of Pope Pius, Ottaviani successfully had Faustina’s writings placed on the “forbidden” list of books.

Polish Catholics in particular were devastated, as the Divine Mercy devotion had become deeply interwoven with the Faith in that land. One of those who were quite troubled by these developments was a young Archbishop in Krakow named Karol Wojtyla. You know this man better as the future Pope Saint John Paul II. With permission from the Vatican, he reopened this case. He discovered that what had caused officials like Ottaviani to be concerned about Sister Faustina’s writings was this: they had been reading badly translated versions of Faustina’s diary in French and Italian, which had corrupted her message. Wojtyla, of course, was able to show Faustina’s orthodoxy in the original Polish. This cleared the path for official Church acceptance of her message. Later, as Pope, Wojtyla canonized Faustina in 2000, and instituted the Feast of Divine Mercy that same year.
